

Money & Faith in Motion

Money & Faith in Motion (MFIM) is ideal for clients who want a faith-based financial education, or for organizations who want to offer faith-based education.

It's a two-hour financial education program available online or in an 88-page workbook. It is based on ACCE's most popular financial education program, Money in Motion, and is EOUST-approved for use as pre-discharge bankruptcy education.

In a recent study, the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of Financial Education identified several areas of deficiency shared by individuals who are struggling with money issues. Money & Faith in Motion addresses these key issues.

Money & Faith in Motion is unique because of its approach to credit. MFIM approaches credit as a practical financial tool that can be helpful if used carefully and responsibly. Money & Faith in Motion includes Bible verses and study questions -- developed with the help of the Black Hills Biblical Institute -- to encourage a deeper understanding of how good money management and faith work together.
